Flagrant Violation of Contract
Alleged on the Edmonton
Branch.

Toronto, Aug. 30.—(Special)—The proposed building of the Canadian Pacific railway in portions of the West by the Grand Trunk Pacific has aroused bitter hostility in Manitoba, and the Canadian Pacific railway is promised some very influential backing in its fight for a readjustment of the new transcontinental railway plans. In fact, the Grand Trunk Pacific appears to have antagonized not only Canadian Pacific interests, but the people of the West also, the chief complaint being that the national transcontinental has flagrantly violated its contract on the Edmonton branch and that it will not open one single new acre of territory. Many believe that the Road Will Never Be Built as originally planned, and that the present announcement is simply made to prepare the public for the eventual absorption of the Mackenzie & Mann enterprise—the Canadian Northern—which is already practically completed to Edmonton. The threatened invasion of the Canadian Pacific's Western territory can have but one result, namely the inauguration of a gigantic race between the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk Pacific as soon as the Western connections of the latter are opened.

There has been friction between the rival interests ever since the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific was first agreed upon, the Canadian Pacific railway precipitating the encounter by which territory in Ontario over which the Grand Trunk enjoyed a monopoly of years' standing.

ECLIPSE IN MANITOBA.

Clouds Render Unsatisfactory Observations at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Aug. 30.—Low-lying clouds along the edge of the horizon caused disappointment to hundreds of residents who arose early today to view the eclipse of the sun from its starting point in the city. Prof. W. H. R. R. of Brown's University, Providence, R.I., had erected instruments at St. John's College observatory, but results were disappointing. Above the low-lying clouds the sky was clear and the eclipse, but the eclipse was invisible here.

Pilot Mound, Man., Aug. 30.—The eclipse of the sun was witnessed here by a large number of people, but the best view was obtained by about a dozen townspeople who walked on to the top of the old mound and the little dune of the Indians whence the horizon is visible for thirty miles and fine, except that of a thin bank of cloud lay just above the Eastern horizon, but exactly where the sun was to rise a gap in the clouds slightly opened about 5:30 a.m. The zodiac light was plainly visible over this gap. At about 5:35 a.m. grey darkness began to fall on the dawn of day, when from the south there came a mighty shadow like the rays of a negative searchlight moving rapidly northwards and the little clouds grew rosy, presently the bright rim of the upper edge of the sun on the right hand looked over the edge of the world. Then the dark convex rim of the moon followed. Both luminaries finally cleared the horizon revealing an eclipse just short of totality, which lasted till 6:30 a.m.

Success in Africa

Guelma, Algeria, Aug. 30.—The American astronomical expedition succeeded in obtaining a splendid photograph of the eclipse of the sun. The expedition, led by means of special apparatus, sketched the sun's protuberances.

Tripoli, Aug. 30.—The American, Italian and French expeditions observed the eclipse here today in clear atmosphere. It lasted 3 minutes 40 seconds. The shadow bands were particularly fine, beginning 10 minutes before the totality. Bailey's beads were not seen. The corona was evenly developed.

Russian Opinion Divided on Peace

News Received at the Capital

War Party Regrets That the Army
Was Not Given One More Chance.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—(5:12 a. m.)—The news of the successful completion of the preliminary negotiations for peace at Portsmouth has been received here without marked expressions. The prevailing sentiment among the thinking element is that Japan arrived at a recognition of the fact that it was really impossible for Russia to make any further concessions because she desired to avoid arousing among the people at home sentiments which would constitute a most serious menace. It is recognized here that Japan also realized that peace, and it is believed that the success of the conference was due to the fact that both nations sincerely desired to effect an understanding. The hope is expressed here that the same high spirit should be maintained in the future, and that the peace will continue until the work has been finally concluded. To this feeling can be ascribed the fact that the more intelligent Russians do not regard the outcome at Portsmouth as being altogether a disaster, and that a victory or a success won at the expense of Japan.

Divergent Russian Opinion

There are undoubtedly certain divergencies of opinion among Russians on another of the points set forth in the preliminary peace understandings. These divergencies can be easily attributed to the existing internal conditions in Russia. President Roosevelt's work, it is declared, supplied the lubricant needed to overcome the initial friction, and to keep the machinery of the conference running to a successful issue.

The Novoe Vremya today says: "Good grants that the Russian has not fallen on Russia at the moment when Japan was ready to make every concession to terminate the war, and when the Russian army had become stronger than ever before."

M. Souvorin, editor of the Novoe Vremya, says he regrets that General Linewitch, who accompanied the Russian delegation to Portsmouth, had not been able to conclude peace, did not lead his army against the Japanese to support the plenipotentiaries, instead of allowing them to do so.

To Conquer Sakhalin

The editor adds that he knows from a certain source that Field Marshal Oyama telegraphed to Tokyo to the effect that he could not guarantee victory. M. Souvorin considers the concessions made by Japan to be of little importance, and says they do not weaken her position. M. Souvorin adds: "If the national assembly does not succeed better in renovating the country's laws than the army does in defending it, Russia will be lost."

The pan-Slavist Svet says: "All the Japanese concessions pale before the news that Japan has acquired the better part of the Island of Sakhalin."

Linevitch Not Notified

The war office at 3:30 p. m. had not sent any message to General Linevitch concerning the declaration of an armistice. War Minister Budjag sent the day with Emperor Nicholas at Krasnoye Selo, the big military camp near Peterhof.

There is reason to believe, however, that General Guder, after conferring with the Emperor, sent a message to General Linevitch concerning an armistice. It was learnt today that the first official telegram from M. Witte announcing the conclusion of the Portsmouth conference was received at the foreign office at 11 o'clock last night. It was commended to His Majesty with only the loss of time necessary for deciphering it.

Several high naval officers were seen this afternoon. They all expressed regret and even dissatisfaction at the conclusion of peace.

The Emperor yesterday visited Bjorko, inspecting a crew in course of construction there. Before leaving the Hof His Majesty called M. Witte to break off the negotiations and leave Portsmouth if the Japanese insisted on indemnity. When he returned to Peterhof the Emperor and M. Witte's cabinet, announcing the success of the negotiations and was delighted. He immediately called him approving the conditions.

Moscow, Aug. 30.—The news of the conclusion of peace was received here today by an immense throng of people with feelings of deep satisfaction. Externally, the city is perfectly calm. Everybody is impatiently awaiting an official communication from St. Petersburg.

Odessa, Aug. 30.—The news of the conclusion of peace was received by all classes here with sincere joy. The conclusion of peace is particularly important to Odessa, whose commerce and industry suffered severely during the war.

Rejoicing in Italy

Rome, Aug. 30.—A scene of rejoicing and all over Italy. The news that peace in the Far East had been concluded. All join in forwarding the news to the achievement to President Roosevelt. The generous nature of the Japanese terms occasioned utter surprise, but there are expressed that the Russian people will regard the concessions a sign of weakness.

The Pope on receipt of the good news exclaimed: "This is the happiest news of my life. Thank God for President Roosevelt's courage."

The Pontiff telegraphed later to Emperor Nicholas his congratulations and to the whole world.

Southampton Celebrates

London, Aug. 30.—The conclusion of peace was celebrated at Southampton by the ringing of bells and the display of flags on the public buildings. The mayor sent a message of congratulation to President Roosevelt.

Vienna, Aug. 30.—It is expected here that a commercial understanding will be the next result of peace between Japan and Russia. It is understood here that France and Germany, and to some extent Russia, will support the proposition of President Roosevelt's proposition.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 30.—The international congress of reformed religions in the course of today's proceedings the following message to President Roosevelt: "Assembled in solemn congress at Geneva, we send you our warmest congratulations and our hearty support. We all rejoice in the conclusion of peace, and we all implore God's blessing for yourself and the United States."

EARTHQUAKE AT PORTSMOUTH.

People Run Terror-Stricken From Houses in Treaty Town.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 30.—A series of three earthquake shocks were felt here this afternoon. Buildings trembled, dishes were shaken from shelves, and in many cases persons rushed in terror from their houses into the streets.

The first shock was felt a little before 5:40 p. m., and the others followed soon after. In the business section the shoppers and office employees rushed out into the streets, believing that the buildings were about to collapse. Each shock continued for several seconds.

GRANBY SMELTER.

A Ninth Furnace to Increase Output to 3,000 Tons Per Day.

Joy P. Graves, general manager of the Granby smelter, has arranged for the inspection of the company's mines at Phoenix, B. C. He was accompanied by Mr. G. H. H. On the newly acquired mine, an ore body has already been opened, and shipments of ore averaging a couple of cars a day are being made, the ore being shipped to the smelter by the Canadian Pacific railway.

The intention to push work on the opening of the Gold Drop, and a tramway will be built and ore bunkers erected at the mine. The mine is situated on the 400 foot level, the ore body has been crossed for upward of 200 feet, and some of the best ore has been found here. Drifts from this crosscut are now being run in several directions. In addition to this, the mine is being continued to the 200 foot level, the explorations thus far proving that the average values are improving as depth is attained.

Six furnaces are once more being installed at the smelter at no distant date. The two new furnaces are larger than any of the six old ones, so the ninth furnace is likely to be larger still. The new works for the smelter, which will cost over $300,000, are now being erected. The converter has already been enlarged, so that it can take care of the output of nine furnaces.

Great Northern Surveyors Now
Prospecting Hope Mountains
For a Pass.

Boasted by the prospect of early communication with the outside world, for which the Hope mountains have long been a barrier, the inhabitants of the town of Hope and other towns in the Similkameen district are now looking for a route to the north. The surveyors of the Great Northern Railway Company, who have been in the district for some time, are now prospecting the Hope mountains for a pass.

DESTROYING NIAGARA'S BEAUTY.

President Roosevelt's Attention Directed to New Worlds to Conquer.

Washington, Aug. 30.—President Roosevelt is being deluged with letters by individuals from all parts of the country praying him to do whatever lies in his power to prevent the further destruction of the natural beauty of Niagara Falls as an incident to the development of the great power plants on both sides of the Niagara river. All of the communications are being filed at the state department, and it is not improbable that they may serve as a basis for some action by the President in the direction of the creation of an international commission to deal with the subject.

NAMING THE NEW HOTEL.

An esteemed correspondent writes and gives a number of names from which to choose for the new C.P.R. hotel. The list is an ample one and might be enlarged. Most of the persons whose names are given have been associated with the history of British Columbia either as a colony or as a province of the Dominion and have performed eminent services in some capacity. Of the historical names of places our choice is "Camosun" as the most distinctive and purely local. In this we agree with a correspondent of some days ago who signed himself "Beaver." The writer, we may say, is a gentleman than whom no one in the province is better qualified to express an opinion on such a subject. Taking the names of persons submitted by "Old Resident," that of "Alexander" would be a compliment to our present fair Queen. She has, however, been well-honored in this way. "Bulwer" or "Lyttton" would suitably memorialize the work done in connection with organization of British Columbia by one who was the ablest and most brilliant of Colonial Secretaries. His instructions and advice to Governor Douglas are monuments to his administrative and constructive statesmanship as well as to literary skill in framing despatches. "Carnarvon" stands out in relation to a very important phase of the negotiations for the Canadian Pacific Railway, known as the "Carnarvon terms." That as a name would have special interest for the people of Vancouver Island, and unusual significance as applied to a hotel built at the terminus of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway by a company owning and operating the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is almost needless to refer to "Dufferin" as being appropriate, and there is a curious historical relationship between that and "Carnarvon" so far as British Columbia is concerned. All those who do not remember have read about the famous motto "Carnarvon terms or secession" displayed on the occasion of Lord Dufferin's memorable visit to Victoria on a diplomatic mission in connection with railway matters and the settlement of the grievances of the people of this Island in respect to them. Blanshard was the first governor, nominally at least, of Vancouver Island, and in that respect the name has claims for consideration. As a personage most prominently associated with the early history and political organization of the Province, as well as by his association with still earlier times in the West, Douglas is, perhaps, unrivalled. The name "Douglas" has, however, been well preserved in other ways. Of Lieutenant-Governors many would be inclined for other good reasons as well as euphony to see the name "Lotbiniere" adopted. Lord Aberdeen, on account of his large interests and the great success of his farming operations in British Columbia, is deserving of special consideration. Choosing a name even for a child is always a matter of great concern, and in a case of this kind not of little consequence. An appropriate, euphonic name is always a good introduction in the case of a person and is not less important in connection with a hotel, one of the first objects of which is to attract the favorable attention of travelers.

RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION.

The question to be considered in connection with the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific through British Columbia as raised by Senator Templeman—somewhat gratuitously, we may add—is not whether it is to ultimately take place or whether it is going to cost the Province little or much; but whether the promises of Senator Templeman in the name of the Liberal party are being, or are likely to be, carried out. Actually and inferentially the people of British Columbia were led to believe that, if Sir Wilfrid Laurier were returned to power, the Grand Trunk Pacific would be undertaken without delay and prosecuted with all vigor throughout the northern interior of this Province. As we stated yesterday, men, some of them prominent in business and political circles, imbued with this false hope, voted and worked for the Liberal candidates, who never worked or voted for Liberals before.

Did they forswear their allegiance for naught? Not exactly; they were led to expect that immediate railway construction—to be commenced from the proposed Western terminus—would bring about very soon a new era of commercial and industrial prosperity, which they wished to share. Senator Templeman, from the public platform in the most solemn way, gave us the assurance of Mr. Hays that it would "be the policy of the company to DILIGENTLY prosecute to completion the surveys which have been in operation for OVER A YEAR, and as soon as progress of the surveys in British Columbia will permit, construction will be commenced from the Pacific Coast end of the road and be carried on continuously in an easterly direction until the road is completed." This statement was printed in capital letters in order to make it more effective. Not only that, but we are assured in equally solemn and emphatic manner that the railway would not cost the Province one cent or one acre of land.

Let Senator Templeman tell us what the position of those surveys are today and what are the prospects of construction being commenced at this end. He is doubtless familiar with the details of Mr. Morse's mission to British Columbia last winter and the announced results. Are his readers, are his political followers, satisfied with the announcement jauntily and even jocularly made that if they have patience the road will be built some time, and that, after all, there is no dreadful hurry for a railway in Northern British Columbia? Do they regard vague statements of that nature as the fulfillment of their expectations? It will make little difference to their feelings in the matter whether the Canadian Pacific Railway opposed the building of the Victoria, Vancouver & Eastern in Southern British Columbia or whether the Tories aided and abetted the proposed "outrage." The question that appeals to them is "Why have you not given us the railway as promised? Why are there no signs, except those of a speculative character, of some plan of operations?" Senator Templeman cannot make his own dog less objectionable by calling some other man's dog bad names.

It is little wonder that upon his return from Ottawa he found so many of his former friends estranged, and that outside of the inner circle who control the patronage and direct the "machine" his reception was chilly. It is not at all wonderful that Mr. Riley was sent for to assist in pouring oil on the troubled waters. In relation to two matters of importance—the Grand Trunk Pacific and the school question—the rank and file of the Liberals of Victoria are in revolt. The feeling is that they have been cruelly deceived and, in the circumstances, it is a matter of surprise that the Grand Trunk Pacific should have been the subject of such cavalier treatment at the present juncture. Only a politician safely ensconced in the Senate could afford to trifle with the public in this way.

TRADE WITH AUSTRALIA.

From the report of the commercial agent for Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia, and Tasmania it would appear that the trade between Canada and Australia is anything but satisfactory. There is an apparent decrease in the imports into Australia from Canada of $636,924, comparing the returns of 1904 with those of 1903. This is explainable, in part, by the enormous decrease in the imports of flour and of cereals, which amounts to $129,000, since 1903. Australia, as the result of improved seasons, has become a large exporter of cereals. Another most important feature is the apparent serious falling off in the imports of Canadian agricultural implements, reapers and binders, etc. Mr. Ross uses the word "apparent" because the figures are actually very misleading. According to the Canadian figures there has been a decrease of only $290,785 in our exports to Australia. The trouble arises from the fact that some of the returns are credited to the United States, New York being still the chief port of shipment of Canadian goods to Australia. This is clearly shown by the fact that while the Australian returns show the value of agricultural implements imported from Canada to be only $131,040, the Canadian returns show $1,026,076, the apparent discrepancy being $895,036. On the other hand, while the Australian returns show imports of agricultural implements to the value of $2,188,710 from the United States, the United States returns of agricultural implements to Australia show for the same year, 1904, only $1,436,121, or an apparent discrepancy of $752,589. The fault is evidently with the Australian customs officials. But even allowing for official inaccuracy the volume of trade between Canada and Australia is not what we were led to expect. The imports of Australian goods to Canada in 1904 only amounted to $142,846, an increase of $21,973 over the previous year. The imports of wool, for instance, only amount to $2,620, preserved meats only figure up to $159, hides, etc., to less than $5,000, and wines to about $100. These are referred to because they represent a few of the products in which it was thought that there would be room for considerable demand in Canada. Outside of fish, agricultural implements and machinery, timber and vehicles, there are no large items of Canadian exports. Clearly, so far, the trade, as the result of direct steamship communication, has been a disappointment. The length of the railway haul may have something to do with it.

Speaking generally, Mr. Ross says: "The trading outlook is satisfactory, prospects favoring a large increase in production in this and the other states, which should be reflected to a considerable extent in Australian commerce. The crops are making splendid progress, wheat promises to yield heavily and the dairying prospects are excellent. The wool clip of 1905-1906 will likely exceed that of last year, and profitable prices are anticipated. The sugar yield of Queensland is expected to exceed 160,000 tons, which quantity will nearly supply the requirements of Australia. The output of gold has been slightly contracted in comparison with last year, but there has been a satisfactory expansion in the exports of lead, tin and copper. Taking everything into consideration the Australian outlook is more encouraging than for many years past."

The Canadian Magazine for September breathes more or less of the autumn season. One of the most interesting of the contributions is an article entitled "Courtship Among the Habitants," by M. B. Parent, presumably to the manner born and knowing whereof he speaks. Love is pretty much the same in all languages and "sparkling," although it has its racial and local characteristics, has methods that are more or less common to all nations. There are two classes of people, however, who perhaps more than any other take genuine innocent pleasure out of this delightful experience of youth. They are the Irish and the French-Canadian. No other language is so full of "true love" as the Irish, and there is no courtship in which there is so much rural simplicity and unsophisticated happiness. For further particulars see Dr. Drummond's book, "The Romance of the Irishman," and as he has had a long experience in political life he can appreciate the value of it. The Canadian Magazine, in this number, has, perhaps, an unusual lot of literary matter, including stories, poetry and departmental work. It keeps up a generally good standard, and is gradually improving it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

[The Editor does not hold himself responsible for views expressed by correspondents.]

NAMING THE NEW C.P.R. HOTEL.

Sir—As it seems to be the fashion to discuss appropriate names for the new C. P. R. hotel, the work on which is progressing so rapidly, may I take the liberty of suggesting the following list as suitable names, viz.:
Queen Alexandra, Bulwer (or Lyttton), or Bulwer-Lytton, Granville, Carnarvon, Newcastle—eminent secretaries of state.
Monck, Dufferin, Lansdowne, Lorne, Stanley, Aberdeen, Minto—former governors general.
Blanshard, Douglas, Seymour, Kennedy, Musgrave, Lotbiniere—governors.
Needham, Regbie—chief justices.
Norton, Meares, Camosun, Barkley, Simpson, Quadra, Juan de Fuca, Beaver—geographical and historical.
Palliser—early explorer.
Dunsinuir, Shaugnessy, James Bay, OLD RESIDENT.
Victoria, B. C., August 30, 1905.

"BEWARE OF ENTRANCE TO A QUARREL."

Sir—Will you permit me to reply to Mr. Beware Higgins' last letter? After he having taken "water" on the "main" question, and raised by him, he says, the issue of "beware" with me, he "beware" me as if I feared his threats, plays his old trick of calling names and making contumacious, to my great amusement, an admission of his defeat. In fact, another Mendenhall, I have not the slightest doubt that he applied to me, and probably the result of long and sincere belief, caused by his persistent political ill luck in Esquimalt district. As the poet says:

"And gentle wishes long subdued,
And gentle wishes long subdued,
No doubt he thinks that everything he can say on a public matter is very material, but he must patiently suffer, to be questioned and contradicted without manifesting ill temper and ill manners.

The value of his rulings when speaker on the powers of the local legislature is a matter of opinion—
"Tis with our judgments as our watches,
None goes just alike, yet each believes his own."
An ex-speaker to write about quarrelling over a little fresh or salt water is ridiculous.

S. PERRY MILLS.

Victoria, August 30, 1905.

MR. WOOLLEY IN RE. MR. MUSGRAVE'S SUGGESTION.

Sir—Curiously enough I did not see your kindly editorial in The Colonist of Saturday, although my attention was called to the comment made by Mr. Edward Musgrave, but the point of the suggestion as I do you. Of course if these volunteer suggestions meet with the approval of those in a position to make decisions, I should be very glad to serve them, and should consider it an honor if they did. I have been doing so in a private and unpaid capacity for many years.

Owing to the books I have written I receive a constant stream of letters dealing about sport and the chances for settlers in this country. In the last week I had half a dozen such letters from visitors, with introductions and without. Of course I do my best for them, but it is a very serious matter when I am asked to do so. If you really mean to send me, do so whilst my friends are in office in England. That is all I venture to suggest. But I want a clearly understood that I am not seeking office; that if anyone else can do the work as well I am ready to stand aside and that if I went I should not go as a politician of any stripe, but as an Englishman who wants, like Mr. Laurier, to do his best to help more of our own nation to British Columbia.

THE PROCONSULS.

(By Rudyard Kipling.)

"The foundations which Lord Milner has laid are firm and strong, and he may leave other men to build upon them. In the proud consciousness that but for the vision which he took six years ago there might now be ruins where a fair and stately building is slowly rising."—London Times.

The overfamiliar sword returns the user.
His hand's desire at price of his heart's blood;
The clamor of the arrogant accuser
Wastes that one hour we needed to make good.

This was foretold of old at our outgiving;
This we accepted who have squandered, knowing,
The strength and glory of our reputations
At the day's need, as it were dross to guard.

The tender and new-dedicated foundations
Against the sea we fear—not man's sword.

They that dig foundations deep,
Fit for realms to rise upon,
Little heed the deeps that lie beneath
Of their generation.

Any more than mountains gain
Stature till we reach the plain.
With no veil before their face
Such as shrouds or sceptre lend,
Daily in the market-place,
Of one height to foe and friend,
They must cleave to the top,
Ends unchaperoned for mankind.

Through the night when hirelings rest
Slumberous they arise alone,
The unsleeping arch to test
And the overstrutted cornerstone
Against the need they know that lies
Hid behind the centuries.

Not by lust of praise or show
Nor by peace herself betrayed;
Peace herself must they forego
That peace be fully made,
And in single strength uphold
Weaker hands and hearts a-cold.

On the stage their act hath framed
To thy sports, O Liberty!
Doubtless are they and defamed
By the tongues their act set free,
While they quicken, tend, and raise
Power that must their power displace.

Lesser men feign greater goals,
Failing whereof they may sit
Seriely to judge the souls
That go down into the pit,
And, despite its certain clay,
Heave a new world towards the day.

These at labor make no sign
More than plants, tides, or years
Which discover God's design,
Not our hopes and not our fears;
Nay, might they gain or lose
Seek a triumph or excuse.

For so the ark be borne to Zion, who
Heeds how they perished or were paid
For the shrine abide, what shame—what pride—
If we the priests were bound or crowned
Before it?

GIVE CANADIAN SHIPS CANADIAN NAMES.

Toronto World.
It is fortunate that C. P. R. enterprise in putting big liners on the Atlantic is not to be crowned with the absurdity of having two of them named the "Empress of Germany" and "Empress of Austria." The company's final decision to name them the "United States" and "Empress of Britain" is a distinct improvement and is in no wise objectionable, but as it is possible for Canadian democracy to furnish Canadian people and the names of the ships which the C. P. R. with commendable business zeal, are putting in commission on the Atlantic are the fruits of a great railway enterprise, built up by the Canadian people, and the names of the liners might reasonably be Canadian in their origin. Why not call them after a Canadian province, a Canadian lake, or Canadian river, or a Canadian city, and advertise Canada's maritime greatness, as the United States and the maritime countries of Europe advertise theirs? This country is still rich in the possession of the raw material for the manufacture of impressive names. The sleeping cars have not snapped up all of them, and a few of the most appropriate could very properly be bestowed on our ocean liners.

A few months ago the enterprise of the Atlantic of Montreal put a turbine steamer on the Atlantic. The ship runs under the name of the Virginian. There was surely a dearth of suggestions when a Canadian steamer had to be dignified with a name so conspicuously American in its origin. It might as well have been named the United States, the New York or the Philadelphia. Canada have a tendency to make light of the intense Americanism of our neighbors, with all their flagging, their reverence for things within the United States and their contempt for things without. There is unquestionably a great deal of petty prejudice and cheap glorification in the national tendencies of the American people, but Canada goes as far towards the other extreme. We are not yet taking ourselves seriously as we ought to from the standpoint of our own practical interests, and we are assuredly kidding Canadian reality desperately cheap when two of our great ocean liners narrowly escaped being christened the Empress of Germany and the Empress of Austria.

ABOUT HORSES.
We take the following from The California Horseman of November, 1904:
Water your horses five or six times a day. They cannot get too much. You will notice a difference very quickly in the general condition of the horse as he fattens very easily with a great quantity of pure water.
The water should be pure. Many farmers think the water is all right so long as the horses will drink it. This is indeed a great mistake. Pure water is as essential to horses as it is to man.

LOCAL NEWS.

To Tour Orient.—Josef Le Roache, a prominent young man of Guelph, Ont., who has completed his course at McGill, is leaving on the Empress on Monday for a year's sojourn in Japan and China.

Bought Peach Orchard.—Harvey Atkinson, K.C., a brother-in-law of Hon. H. R. Emmerson, minister of railways, is paying a visit to the coast cities. Mr. Emmerson has acquired a valuable peach orchard in Summerland, the garden of this province, where he owns a peach orchard.

Still Doing Business.—Messrs. M. W. Waitt & Co., Ltd., have not retired from business, but are still to be found at their usual address. This announcement is made because by an error in the press their regular business had been missing from its accustomed place on the 8th page, for the past two issues.

Logging Regulation.—The Vancouver Province is authority for the statement that hereafter no more logs cut from Crown lands under hand-loggers' licenses may be exported. An order to that effect was issued by Hon. R. F. Green, chief commissioner of lands and forests, and communicated by R. J. Skinner, timber inspector, to all parties concerned. The penalty laid down by Hon. Mr. Green for nonobservance is the seizure of the logs.

May Show Airship.—Will the visitors to the Dominion fair have the pleasure of witnessing the novel sight of a ponderous airship making its flights above the grounds? is a question that is being discussed by the management. An offer of this strong attraction has been received and is now being considered by the board of control, and if possible the arrangements will be made for the appearance of one of the most modern aerial conveyances which will make daily ascents and trips through the atmosphere.

Canada May Gain.—In an interview before his departure for the East, W. R. MacInnes, freight traffic manager of the C.P.R., said: "I am not aware that the Chinese export of American goods has had any effect on the trade with Canada. There is no telling what may happen if the boycott is maintained for any length of time. Flourmillers inform me that since the boycott a fact a great many inquiries for Canadian flour have been received, and as a result the Canadian mills may secure some of the trade heretofore held by Americans."

Okanagan Mail Lost.—Victorians who recently forwarded letters to the Okanagan country need not be surprised if they fail to get answers thereto. During the high wind last Saturday, a mail train of the C.P.R. was blown off the tracks at Okanagan Landing, and the mail, which was lost, was carried by a mailman to the Okanagan country.

Returning to Japan.—Rinji Nagayama, an expert in the Japanese government telephone, telegraph and post office service, has reached the coast. He is completing a tour of the large centres of the west coast and will leave for the Orient by the Empress next Monday. His trip is an instance of the manner in which Japan is profiting by the experience of other countries, and Mr. Nagayama has been offered the position of Japanese representative in the old countries of Europe with a view to utilizing the best points in the government services in his native land.

Comes to Victoria.—V. H. Watchorn, who has for the past five years been manager of the boot and shoe department for Spencer's Nanaimo store, has accepted a position with the Paterson Shoe Company as manager of their store on the corner of Johnson and Yates streets, made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Christie, the former manager, to be general manager of the company. When Mr. Watchorn first went to Nanaimo it was as an employee of the Paterson Shoe Company, and he is therefore now just coming back to his old employers, between whom and himself there has always existed the best of feeling.

Western Canada Pulp.—At a recent meeting in London of the Western Canada Pulp Association, presided by Mr. Ward, president, said the company had appeared before the committee of the law by accepting cheques for payment of allotment money, and the case had been carried to the courts, where it was decided against them. The underwriters had found themselves saddled with more shares than they liked, and had been heavily demanded their money back. The large shareholders had come to the rescue, offering to make good the deficiency in the subscribed capital caused by the withdrawal of the dissentient shareholders. They would inform the board of the decision they had arrived at at the end of a month, and the board would then inform the shareholders.

Confidence Game.—A few days ago a slick confidence game of the time-worn heads-I-win-tails-you-lose variety was played on board the steamer Charnier, on James Beaus of London, Ont., who was going home to visit the fair at Portland fair. When on the steamer not far from Vancouver Mr. Beaus was approached by a man who said that his name was Butler and who engaged Mr. Beaus in conversation on the wonders of the Portland fair. Mr. Beaus says his new friend twirled some silver in his hand, and a few moments later suggested that they should flip the coin to pass the time. The result of the coin's amusement cost Mr. Beaus just $55, and it was not until the steamer was tied up at the wharf and half the passengers had left that he realized that a game had been played against him.

Rates on Lumber.—Traffic officials of the C.P.R. and a committee of members of the British Columbia Lumber & Shingle Manufacturers' Association are trying to arrange a settlement of the railway tariff question insofar as it affects the cost of shipping cedar and fir into the Northwest Territories and Manitoba. Months ago the lumbermen agreed to the board of the C.P.R. and the lumbermen have made certain proposals regarding shipments of lumber and shingles in mixed and carload lots, and out of these suggestions may come a settlement.

Electrical Standardizing.—As was briefly mentioned in yesterday's Columnist, the electrical standards branch of the inland revenue department is at present installing in the inland revenue offices in Vancouver electrical standards of the laboratory type for the purposes of the standardization of government instruments. The portable standards used by the inspectors are being replaced by the standard units, to become inaccurate and hitherto no means of comparison have been available nearer than Ottawa. The sending of the instruments to Ottawa and their return by express would tend to improve their condition. The laboratory standards now being installed will obviate the necessity of the reference to Ottawa and will prove a great convenience, not only to the inspectors, but also to the electrical industries of the province.

"Wonderland."—The Northern Pacific Railway Company has just issued the 1905 edition of Wonderland, it contains an interesting description of the territory tapped by this famous line, and is profusely illustrated with halftones. C. E. Lang is the local agent of the road.

Exchange Courtesies.—In return for the courtesies extended to the Sound city craftsmen by Victoria-Vancouver lodge last month, local Masons are invited to visit St. John's lodge, A. F. & M. S., Seattle, on the 9th of next month. The Victorians will leave here on the evening of the 8th, and on Saturday will be entertained by the members of St. John. Those who desire may return on the following Sunday, as it is quite likely that many will remain until Monday.

Died in Ontario.—The intelligence has been received in the city of the death at his home in Paisley, Ont., of William Rose, one of the pioneers of Bruce county. Mr. Rose until a short time ago made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Lumsden, in Victoria. A number of children, all grown to manhood and womanhood, survive him, namely, Mrs. Lumsden and James in this city, William and Dan in Dawson, and Finlay in Vancouver. The late Mr. Rose had reached the ripe age of 75 years.

German Journalist's Trip.—Rudolph Bach, a German journalist, who has been spending the summer on the coast for the purpose of obtaining material for a book to be published in Germany, has just returned from the northern coast. He says the trip is one of the finest he has ever undertaken. One of the most interesting incidents of the tour was an Indian wedding, which was celebrated with a great deal of ceremony at Port Simpson.

Deserves a Medal.—There is a young gentleman at Ladysmith deserving of a Humane Society's medal, for it is entirely due to his gallantry that a well-known young lady and gentleman were not drowned on Sunday last. The young people in question were bathing with a number of friends, when, becoming too venturesome, they got out of the water. Neither the lady or the man nor in fact any of their friends were able to swim, and according to an eyewitness they had already made two trips to the bottom of the briny, and the young man was beginning to look serious when the young man referred to above made a gallant rescue.

One of the oldest adages in the world is this: "It is necessary that he who looks for gain should incur expense." And yet there are still a few merchants who balk at the expense of adequate advertising.

Fishery Commission.—It has been arranged that the fishery commission appointed by the Dominion government, of which the chairman is Prof. Prince, will hold its first session in this city on Wednesday next. The meeting will be held in the city hall, and will take place at the Diarr hotel. Its object will be to outline the work and scope of the body and arrange the conferences with the American commissioners. It is intended also to hold a few sittings, but the main investigation will be deferred until early next season.

School Exhibit.—H. Dummell, one of the members of the committee gathering of the school to represent the work of the schools of the province at the Westminster fair, is at Nanaimo to see what the schools there propose to do in regard to having some of their work shown at the big exhibition. The committee has P. H. Eaton, superintendent of Victoria schools, as chairman, and a number of school teachers, and the various inspectors, each looking after his district, as members of the committee.

Mr. Dummell states that it is too early yet to say much about the success of the exhibit as a whole, a number of places are taking a great deal of interest in it and the committee expect to get together a very representative and creditable display.

Bad Weather in North.—Steamers arriving from the North report that weather conditions are the reverse of agreeable. Captain Saunders of the steamer Camosun, which reached Vancouver on Tuesday, stated that the weather for the last week was simply abominable. Rain fell for several days without interruption, and the temperature was cold and disagreeable. On Sunday night the Camosun had to lie at the Good Hope cannery wharf, River Inlet, at night. She had several thousand cases of salmon to pick up at the Good Hope, but could not load on account of the heavy downpour of rain. From the Skeena river and from Rivers Inlet the Camosun brought 6,500 cases of salmon.

Gold Shipments.—A correspondent at Skagway writes to the effect that there has been a slight falling off in the amount of gold that has passed through Skagway up to the middle of August this year, compared with that of the same period last year. From August 15 this year there has been shipped by the Alaska Pacific Express Company gold dust to the value of $6,337,133. During the same period in 1904 there passed through Skagway $6,405,375, a difference in favour of the year 1904. The decrease in the shipments is from the Klondike. From Fairbanks there has been a gain of more than $1,500,000. It is expected, however, that the Klondike will remain much of its lost ground before the close of the season. The shipments of the latter portion of the year are expected to be greater than they were last year.

Poultry Show.—It is understood that Quick Bros., of Victoria, who have a collection of pure-bred Pouter and other varieties, are entering the Portland poultry exhibition. It is also possible that other local fanciers will participate. The judges for the show are: George D. Holden, president of the American Poultry

Woodmen to Meet.—The Woodmen of the World will hold their regular monthly meeting at the lodge rooms this evening.

Removing the Traps.—Several of the trappers which had been engaged on the traps during the last month or so are now busy removing the traps and the traps. The piles of the traps are raised by means of powerful hoisting machinery, and the weight of the lift is distributed on two screws placed side by side.

Y.M.C.A. Excursion.—Eighty-seven who "take in" the Y.M.C.A. excursion on Labor Day will be given an opportunity of viewing the smelter at Oroton, also the immense lumber mill at Chemainus. The steamer City of Nanaimo will leave the C.P.R. dock Monday morning at 10 o'clock, making the delightful trip among the islands to the above points, leaving there in time to arrive home about 8 o'clock.

Vancouver's Tally-ho.—Steve White, the Victoria's lively, is putting a fine large new tally-ho in commission in Vancouver. The conveyance is a very handsome, and is being painted in white paint and varnish, with the accommodation for from 25 to 30 people. Mr. White imported it from the East with the intention of running it from his own stables in Victoria, but he concluded that it was needed in Vancouver.

Naval "At Home."—The officers of the German warship Falke, now in Esquimalt, yesterday afternoon entertained a representative gathering of Victorians at an "at home" on board the vessel, which was gallantly decorated for the occasion. Every arrangement looking to the comfort and pleasure of the guests had been made, and the affair was voted one of the most enjoyable functions of the season. The list of invited guests was a very large one.

Double-Tracking.—A. T. Govard, local manager of the B. C. Electric Railway Co., asked yesterday concerning the intentions of the company with regard to double-tracking, said that the work in immediate contemplation was the completion or continuance of the switch at the Brockton street crossing. The new rails have arrived and as soon as this work is finished the company will commence lengthening the double-track from the corner of Douglas and Pandora, up Pandora, which will improve the service of the line. The company is considerably and do away with much waiting and delay.

Had Heated Discussion.—A Duluth, Minn., despatch of August 24th, appearing in Winnipeg exchanges, is as follows: "Stockholders of the Revelstoke and Coughlin Gold Mining Co., which is operating a hydraulic mine in British Columbia, held a heated discussion here to-night, after they had listened to the president, W. N. Brown, who failed to present the detailed report of the operations of the company, which had been expected, and some of the stockholders thought him evasive in his answers to questions. A vote was taken requesting the president to resign, and the result was to submit a fully detailed report at once. After the meeting some of the stockholders said that $8,000 had been collected as assessments, $2,000 worth of gold had been sold, and the president reported that the concern was now $5,000 in the hole, though its expenses were estimated by the stockholders as having been not more than $5,000 at the outside.

Labor Day.—A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Labor Day celebration committee was held in Labor hall last evening. President Caldwell in the chair. The ticket committee reported over 150 tickets sold already and that everything looked well for the day. The music committee reported that special arrangements had been made whereby the Fifth Regiment band will give a musical concert during the entire trip. One of the new and special features of the parade will be between 60 and 70 decorated automobiles in the procession and automobile races will be a feature of the sports for the first time in British Columbia. Tug-of-war competitions will take place during the sports, between teams of various unions in Victoria and Vancouver. As stated in the advertisements the boat will not leave Vancouver until 11 in the evening, thus giving visitors an opportunity of taking in the fireworks display on the harbor, dancing and other amusements.

An Old-Timer.—The tug Pioneer left Puget Sound for Douglas Island, Alaska, on Monday night, towing the old bulkhead Oregon, which carries 2,000 tons of coal for the Treadwell mines. Capt. Newman, in command of the Oregon, stated that he expected to reach Douglas Island in ten days. The Oregon is one of the best of the old-time sailing ships left on the coast. She was built in 1850, and for a number of years she was in the East India trade, and later was sold to a firm in South Africa. She is at present owned by R. W. Dunsinuir. In 1891, when the ship was sailing between Vancouver and Seattle, she was carrying a general cargo, with coal on deck, a serious explosion happened, in which the vessel was slightly burned, and the captain and several of the crew were injured. The ship was shortly afterwards wrecked off the Vancouver Island shore, but was later salvaged. The vessel will be off Douglas Island all winter, and may return South some time next spring.

Cartridges Galore.—R. Ward & Co., Ltd., have imported by the "Saxon" the largest shipment of sporting cartridges which ever entered British Columbia, being over 16 tons in weight and over 300,000 in quantity. The manufacture of Cartridges & Ammunition Ltd., all loaded with their celebrated "Amberite" smokeless gunpowder, reliable in all climates in two brands—"Dragon" and "Special." R. Ward & Co. are the sole agents for British Columbia. The cartridges were all loaded in order at the well-known factory at Hounslow, England. These brands have been sold in this market for the past twelve years and are noted for their excellence.

FIELD SPORTS.

Races for Saturday

Ten competitors from the Brockton Point Athletic Association have already sent in their entries for the field meet on Saturday at Alton. There are not only competitors from the Terminal City, they will have entries in every event on the program, including the large number that are expected to enter from this city. The track is in the shape, workmen having been engaged on it for the last few days, with the result that it is in better shape for sprinting than ever before. It is very fast, and some new races are looked for. The local competitors have been training faithfully for some time, and will make a determined effort to down the outsiders. The rivalry among the local spirits is also very keen and some of the toughest battles are looked for. All the local athletes are expected to make, and several dark horses are expected to drop in at the last minute. The attention of intending competitors is drawn to the fact that the entry list closes this evening at 8 o'clock, and that entries are expected to be in by that time.

THE RIFLE.

Britain vs. United States

A team of ten men from the U. S. torpedo boat destroyer Paul Jones were defeated in a shooting competition at Clover Point yesterday afternoon by a team of the Royal Engineers. Two ranges were fired, 250 and 500 yards, 10 shots each. The Britishers again proved their superiority over the visitors by over 200 marks.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At the meeting which was held in the drill hall last evening to discuss the proposed reception to Hospital Corporal Richardson on his return from the front, a small working committee was appointed to arrange the details, and will report to the meeting on Monday evening. In this manner the citizens would be able to honor a rest right on a quiet street, and the form of a banquet or concert. One of the new and special features of the parade will be between 60 and 70 decorated automobiles in the procession and automobile races will be a feature of the sports for the first time in British Columbia. Tug-of-war competitions will take place during the sports, between teams of various unions in Victoria and Vancouver. As stated in the advertisements the boat will not leave Vancouver until 11 in the evening, thus giving visitors an opportunity of taking in the fireworks display on the harbor, dancing and other amusements.

An Old-Timer.—The tug Pioneer left Puget Sound for Douglas Island, Alaska, on Monday night, towing the old bulkhead Oregon, which carries 2,000 tons of coal for the Treadwell mines. Capt. Newman, in command of the Oregon, stated that he expected to reach Douglas Island in ten days. The Oregon is one of the best of the old-time sailing ships left on the coast. She was built in 1850, and for a number of years she was in the East India trade, and later was sold to a firm in South Africa. She is at present owned by R. W. Dunsinuir. In 1891, when the ship was sailing between Vancouver and Seattle, she was carrying a general cargo, with coal on deck, a serious explosion happened, in which the vessel was slightly burned, and the captain and several of the crew were injured. The ship was shortly afterwards wrecked off the Vancouver Island shore, but was later salvaged. The vessel will be off Douglas Island all winter, and may return South some time next spring.

SORE THROATS.—Being an antiseptic and having a peculiar soothing and healing effect, Angier's Emulsion cleanses, softens and restores the membrane to a healthy condition. It clears away obstructions of foreign matter, destroys disease-making bacteria, and is easy and cures the cough. A fifty-cent bottle is often sufficient.

Use Leffer's Dry Soap (a powder) to wash woollens and flannels, you'll like it.

Writings of an Old Landmark

Residence Built by Sir James Douglas Here Over Half a Century Ago.

Impressions of the Fine New Residence of Lieut. Governor as It Is Today.

Continuing the articles descriptive of Victoria, "M. T." writes in the Manitoba Free Press:

"A stone's throw from the parliament buildings—this would have been a beautiful or splendid or magnificent, but these adjectives are overworked and need to be used sparingly. The old wooden residence built by Sir James Douglas over half a century ago, has been a landmark in the city. The old wooden residence built by Sir James Douglas over half a century ago, has been a landmark in the city. Although the residence club have not won the championship, they will also be included in the list of the best teams of the last few years without a chance for the pennant next recognition. Besides all these there must not be forgotten the fact that the association club, it is only within the last two seasons that it has won the championship of British Columbia, and then to a team which is closely allied with Victoria. At present this team are planning to go to the United States to play against the best teams on the Pacific Coast. Already arrangements are being perfected for this trip, which, with a little assistance, should land the local representatives on the top of the list as footballers on the coast. very place to watch the summer hours go. The moon has enterprise, deep quiet droops with evening, triumph takes the sunset hour, and the moon is broad, high, sunny. The people speak with proud of the gentle old seigneur who reigns there, hoping he will remain a second time, as the improved first, the man of the old French Huguenot type. What more need be said?

NEW YORK STOCKS.—New York, Aug. 30.—As was to be expected, the effect of yesterday's historic event at Portsmouth found clearer reflection on the stock exchanges of Europe than on American. London, Paris and Berlin reported a vastly better tone. This was shown in the improved prices for Russian and Japanese issues, advances in British consols and French Renten and Indian purchases of American securities. The New York market, however, was to be guided by those abroad. The day's movements were unimportant as a whole, but reflected the general feeling. The stock that showed decided strength in the opening dealings was Canadian Pacific. Reading's decline of more than two points was regarded as quite natural in view of the company's poor showing for July. Amalgamated Copper declined on heavy selling by numbers and shares, and the old hostilities in the Far East would necessarily curtail the demand for the metal. The weather, which assumed a gloomy during the early session, but later recovered appearances; traders bought of the active issues, bringing partial recoveries. The market was generally quiet, with Erie and United States Steel common. The strength of these stocks, together with a decided advance in Pacific Coast, were the only notable features of the final hour, the market showing weakness at the close. It is hardly likely that any foreign loans will be negotiated until the American credit requirements have been met. Bonds were irregular; total sales par value, $1,550,000.

AMUR FOR THE WINTER RUN.

She Will Displace the Princess Beatrice and Princess May.

The steamers Princess Beatrice and Princess May, of the C. P. R. fleet, will be pulled out the Lynn Canal and Northern British Columbia run the latter part of October, says the Vancouver Province. By that time the outward rush from the Yukon will be over and the great northern river will be fast in the embrace of the ice—to remain so till next June.

When she is taken off the northern route the steamer Princess May will be laid up for the overhauling, repairing and remodeling which is planned for her. When she is recommissioned next spring she will be a different steamer from what she is today. As mentioned some months ago, it is the intention of the C. P. R. to tear out all the main deck accommodation of the May and run up a saloon and accompanying staterooms on the upper deck.

The Princess May will make her last sailing from this port on October 17, and the last sailing of the May will be on October 24. It is not known what intentions Captain Troup, superintendent of the C. P. R. coasting service, has with respect to the disposition of the Princess Beatrice after she is taken off the Skagway run.

The steamer Amur will go on the Lynn Canal run for the winter, and will make her first sailing on October 30. The Amur is now in the North with a cargo of general freight consigned to Yukon points. On her return to port she will be laid up here till she goes on the winter run.

Board of Trade.—A council meeting of the Board of Trade will take place tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. to consider what representations, if any, shall be made on behalf of the board to the tariff, railway and fisheries commissions, which are to visit British Columbia. P. Elworthy, secretary to the board, who has until lately been confined to the hospital, is happily recovered sufficiently to resume his duties tomorrow.

In Russian Jail.—A special cable from London appearing in the Vancouver World is as follows: "Capt. Anderson, who commanded the Kito-maru, a Japanese vessel captured by the Russians last year, states that in prison at Medvedev are R. Finlay of Victoria, B.C., and C. Grant of Pictou, N.S., seal hunters. The men were captured on board the Japanese sealing schooner captured by the Russians, 250 miles east of Vladivostok. The Russians took the vessel in tow, but on receiving a wireless message that the Japanese squadron was approaching, blew up the vessel."

gree. In response to this dangerous pressure the St. Petersburg admiralty modified its instructions to naval commanders.

Battle of Tachetiao

To crush Kuropatkin at Tachetiao was now the aim of the Japanese chiefs. Gen. Nogai was detached to begin the siege of Port Arthur, and a combination was formed of the forces of Kuropatkin, Oku and Nodzu. By seizing the station Tachetiao threatened Kuropatkin's rear at Laloyang, and Lieut. Gen. Count Kuropatkin was sent to oust him. Keller attacked at the pass July 4 and again July 17, but met a severe repulse each time.

Having no time to complete preparations for a powerful attack, the combined Japanese armies were launched against Kuropatkin at Tachetiao July 23, 24 and 25, and by strategy more than force compelled him to retreat. The Japanese lost 1,043 men and the Russians 700, according to the official reports. The way to Newchwang and its highly important seaport, Yinkow, being now open, they were occupied by the Japanese July 29, giving them an ideal base for reinforcements and supplies destined for their Manchurian armies.

Oku and Nodzu struck the retreating Russians at Simoucheng and Hancheng July 30, August 1 and 2, while Kuropatkin again met Keller in Yanze and Yushan passes July 31 and August 1. At all three places the Japanese were successful, and Kuropatkin, after withdrawing his beaten forces temporarily to Anshanshan, concentrated his forces for a powerful attack for a further north at Laloyang for a determined stand. The Japanese stated their loss at Simoucheng and Hancheng as 860, and the Russians gave theirs as "more than 1,000." At Motien pass the Japanese lost 970 and the Russians about 1,400. Gen. Keller was among the killed.

The siege of Port Arthur having been pressed, the Russian fleet there put to sea and attempted a junction with the Vladivostok squadron. It consisted of six battleships, four cruisers and eight torpedo boats, and was commanded by Rear Admiral Witthoff.

The fleet sailed out August 10 and was encountered 25 miles to the southeast by Togo, with five battleships. The Russians were defeated with eleven cruisers and thirty torpedo boats. The Russians were defeated with heavy loss in killed or wounded, though the Japanese failed to sink any vessel. Witthoff perished amid an inferno of slaughter on the Czarevitch, which was disabled and took refuge at Tsigelchou, in the German sphere of China. The cruiser Askold and the destroyer Grozovoi fled to Shanghai, the cruiser Diana to Saigon, French Indo-China, and the destroyer Ryshchik to Chefoo. The Czarevitch, Askold, Grozovoi and Diana were later dismantled and are being held at those ports by the respective neutral powers. The Japanese violated Chinese neutrality by seizing the Ryshchik at Chefoo.

The cruiser Novik went first to Shanghai and then made a dash for the island of Sakhalen by the Japanese cruisers Chitose and Tsushima, beaten in a fight and driven ashore. The vessels of the Port Arthur fleet, other than those named, returned after the fall of the fortress guns.

The Vladivostok fleet had steamed out to form a junction with the hapless Witthoff. It was overtaken by Admiral Kamimura, whom it had barely beaten in the Straits of Korea August 14, and severely defeated. The armored cruiser Rurik being sunk. The other two vessels of the fleet—the armored cruisers Rossia and Gromobol—returned to Vladivostok badly crippled.

The Japanese navy suffered a severe loss September 18, when the gunboat Haylen struck a mine near Port Arthur and 285 of her crew were drowned.

Russian Defeat at Laloyang.—Meanwhile Chinese armies had been massing around Laloyang, where Kuropatkin collected 225,000 men, posted in positions of wonderful strength. Oyama, with about the same number of troops, attacked his entrenchments, and then ensued a great battle, which raged nine days—August 28 to September 5.

For a long time the Russians beat off the desperately brave assaults of the Japanese, but Oyama's army forced Kuropatkin to retreat in order to face his line of communications.

This battle was bloodier than Gettysburg. The Japanese reported their losses in killed and wounded as 17,539, and the Russians fixed theirs at 16,000. At Gettysburg 32,985 men were killed or wounded, but many also were taken prisoners.

Slaughter at the Shakhe.—From Laloyang Kuropatkin retreated in good order to Yontai, ten miles northward, where he entrenched again. The world was startled by the issuance of a proclamation addressed to his army, under date of October 2, announcing that the Russian forces had not been numerous sufficient to defeat the Japanese hitherto, but were "now strong enough to begin a forward movement. The time has arrived for us to compel the Japanese to do our will." This proclamation, though signed by Kuropatkin, was understood to be really the work of the bombastic Alexieff.

Yielding to pressure from above, the general put his huge army in motion and attacked the Japanese for the first time. The awful battle of the Shakhe river, October 9 to 18, followed. Like Laloyang, it was one of the bloodiest conflicts of modern times.

Kuropatkin sent Gen. Mistchenko against the Japanese right, which he was to turn and thus open a way for the Russians to get in the rear of the Japanese, who would then be forced to retreat hurriedly. Mistchenko actually seized the necessary positions after furious fighting, but meantime Oyama had assumed a counter offensive, driving back the Russian right and centre, and Kuropatkin was compelled to order Mistchenko's withdrawal.

Though the Russians fought like tigers, nothing could resist the impetuous onslaught of the Japanese. Kuropatkin was driven back twenty miles, inch by inch, until to save himself he took refuge behind the Shakhe river, ten miles east of Mukden.

The Russians reported their total losses in the battle of the Shakhe as 33,250, and the Japanese gave theirs as 15,879. It had been far bloodier than Laloyang. Each side accused the other of concealing losses, and Marshal Oyama reported that his men buried 13,233 Russian dead left on the field.

Following the battle of the Shakhe there was a long period of inaction, followed by the reverses of Kuropatkin at Mukden. Kuropatkin was displaced in disgrace, and Lnevitch succeeded to his command.

After the capture of Mukden the Japanese pursued the retreating Russians up the railroad beyond Kalyann and then halted, since which time both armies have maintained their positions without any serious fighting. Oyama and Lnevitch were ready to jump at each other's throat with a sign of failure at Portsmouth.

The fall of Port Arthur, the long trip of the Baltic fleet and subsequent defeat of Russia in the battle of the Sea of Japan are too fresh in the minds of the reader to need more than passing mention.

THE RESURRECTION OF CHINA.

San Francisco Argonaut

Meanwhile Chinese armies had been constantly absorbed of the growing solidarity of the Chinese people. If the incredulous are still inclined to smile sceptically at the prospect of Chinese solidarity, they can go to the spot to see the grim. The Celestial Empire, published at Shanghai representing the views of the British in that part of the Orient, is convinced of this practical resurrection of the China man. It says that not even the Scowen can be more clamant than the Chairman when it suits his purpose. The following may serve as a stay to the expectations of those who fancy that the Chinese government can stop the boycott: "Their guilds are models of their kind, and their rules and laws far exceeding in stringency and far more readily and punctually obeyed than the laws of the realm. This Journal gives as reasons for the growing unity of the Chinese the increased traveling facilities by railway and steamboat and the work of the imperial post office, and telegraphs. Perhaps the most important factor, however, in the eyes of the Celestial Empire, is the development of the press. Formerly public meetings of Chinese to discuss public questions were practically unknown. Now they are every day occurrences. It appears that the war and the economic facts arising out of and in connection with the war, have really succeeded in winning what was too readily believed to be a hopelessly inert people."

Some Prices For Electric Power

Interesting Figures Given Regarding Rates Now Prevailing at Buffalo.

Power in Great and Growing Demand For Domestic Purposes.

The difficulty of reaching a definite conclusion as to the lowest price at which Niagara Falls power could be sold in Toronto has been the subject of much discussion. In this correspondence, writes a Niagara Falls correspondent of the Toronto Globe, in the recent power, heat and light section of the Globe the following statement, based on the careful calculations of an expert, was given in regard to one factor of the question:

"The cost in a typical instance for delivery over 100 miles has been calculated for 10,000 horsepower made up of trans-formers at $7.50 per horsepower, double capacity being required, $15,000; substations, $200 per mile, $20,000; copper for a pressure of 40,000 volts, $50,000 lbs. $127,500; transforming stations, including measuring instruments, etc., $12,500; total, $310,000. The right of way is not included in this estimate. The annual cost would be $28,000, consisting of repairs, maintenance, depreciation at 10 per cent., interest at 5 per cent., $51,000, and management, labor and expenses, $15,000."

To this must be added the cost of distribution, which is heavy, and in this respect two cases are alike. The erection of substations, the laying of conduits for the conveyance underground of the cables, constitute a large item in the aggregate of the cost of electrical power, and it would hardly be possible to find two cases alike in this respect. The features presented, and consequently the cost of distribution.

Niagara Falls Power in Buffalo

It may be of interest, however, to present here a few figures as to Niagara Falls power sold at Buffalo, though they do not lend themselves easily to attempt to constitute a large item in the aggregate of the cost of electrical power, and it would hardly be possible to find two cases alike in this respect. The features presented, and consequently the cost of distribution.

Some Buffalo Prices

Your correspondent during a visit to the power company's plant spoke with Mr. de Lancy, the third vice president, regarding the power sold at Buffalo, which is between twenty-two and twenty-three miles away. The power is sold at Buffalo, which is between twenty-two and twenty-three miles away. The power is sold at Buffalo, which is between twenty-two and twenty-three miles away.

When Yearly Contracts Are Made

Mr. Rankine said that in the case of power, the price is fixed for a year. The price is fixed for a year. The price is fixed for a year. The price is fixed for a year.

One unit of the development of power here is the growing use of electricity for domestic purposes. An official of the Buffalo & Niagara Falls Electric Light Company of this city, which buys its power

China's Boycott

A Live Issue

Consideration of Matter Likely to Tax the Ingenuity of Congress.

United States Officials Lack Definite Information of Extent of Movement.

The Washington correspondent of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer writes his paper as follows:

Chinese exclusion will come up for consideration before congress this winter, and it promises to make a great deal of trouble for the legislators. In the light of recent developments, and it will tax the ingenuity of the lawmakers to settle it without offending one interest or another.

Exporters have become thoroughly alarmed over the Chinese boycott, and they insist that some concessions should be made China through the medium of a treaty. On the other hand, the labor organizations will bitterly oppose anything that even appears like a letting down of the bars.

The administration recently had to deal with the problem as a result of representations made by the Chinese minister and to head off what appeared to be a widespread boycott of American goods in the celestial empire. Just how far the boycott has extended is not definitely known in official circles, but the movement is no longer regarded as a "bluff."

Coolies Evince Cunning

Up to date no one has appeared here to advocate the abandonment of the exclusion principle, but demands have been made that practically amount, in the opinion of some of the immigration officials, to the abrogation of the law.

In the proposed treaty taken up for negotiation here a year ago, China asked that all professional and merchant classes be admitted as freely as citizens of other nations, although the Chinese minister stated at the time that while the Chinese government was not prepared to admit the Chinese to the United States, it was willing to consider the admission of the Chinese to the United States.

A FAMOUS POKER HAND.

"I once heard Dan Seymour speak of some remarkable hands and wonderful draws he had seen in his extensive travels, by the way, reaches from the rudest mining camps to the most luxurious clubs of Paris and London," said an old poker player the other night.

"When I speak about great draws and hands I refer, of course, to square games. Nothing is strange in a crooked game, for every man around the table would hold five aces if you dealt them to him, and there would be no speaking of five aces. I know of five aces being held in a square game. In New Orleans, you know, there's big poker going on every night, and there are only gentlemen in the game. At the beginning of the game each man takes $500 worth of chips. No money ever passes at the table, and the game is unlimited. Well, it has a limit—$5,000—but $5,000 is about the same as no limit. They always play with two decks of cards, and the dealer is the other is shuffled ready for the other deal."

Attack of Diarrhoea Cured by One Dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

I was so weak from an attack of diarrhoea that I could scarcely attend to my duties, when I took a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It cured me in nine days with out relief. I heartily recommend this remedy as being the best to my knowledge for bowel complaints. E. G. Stewart, of the firm of Stewart & Co., Greenville, Ala. For sale by all druggists.

Exporters have become thoroughly alarmed over the Chinese boycott, and they insist that some concessions should be made China through the medium of a treaty. On the other hand, the labor organizations will bitterly oppose anything that even appears like a letting down of the bars.

The administration recently had to deal with the problem as a result of representations made by the Chinese minister and to head off what appeared to be a widespread boycott of American goods in the celestial empire. Just how far the boycott has extended is not definitely known in official circles, but the movement is no longer regarded as a "bluff."

Coolies Evince Cunning

Up to date no one has appeared here to advocate the abandonment of the exclusion principle, but demands have been made that practically amount, in the opinion of some of the immigration officials, to the abrogation of the law.

In the proposed treaty taken up for negotiation here a year ago, China asked that all professional and merchant classes be admitted as freely as citizens of other nations, although the Chinese minister stated at the time that while the Chinese government was not prepared to admit the Chinese to the United States, it was willing to consider the admission of the Chinese to the United States.

A FAMOUS POKER HAND.

"I once heard Dan Seymour speak of some remarkable hands and wonderful draws he had seen in his extensive travels, by the way, reaches from the rudest mining camps to the most luxurious clubs of Paris and London," said an old poker player the other night.

"When I speak about great draws and hands I refer, of course, to square games. Nothing is strange in a crooked game, for every man around the table would hold five aces if you dealt them to him, and there would be no speaking of five aces. I know of five aces being held in a square game. In New Orleans, you know, there's big poker going on every night, and there are only gentlemen in the game. At the beginning of the game each man takes $500 worth of chips. No money ever passes at the table, and the game is unlimited. Well, it has a limit—$5,000—but $5,000 is about the same as no limit. They always play with two decks of cards, and the dealer is the other is shuffled ready for the other deal."

Attack of Diarrhoea Cured by One Dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

I was so weak from an attack of diarrhoea that I could scarcely attend to my duties, when I took a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It cured me in nine days with out relief. I heartily recommend this remedy as being the best to my knowledge for bowel complaints. E. G. Stewart, of the firm of Stewart & Co., Greenville, Ala. For sale by all druggists.

China's Boycott

A Live Issue

Consideration of Matter Likely to Tax the Ingenuity of Congress.

United States Officials Lack Definite Information of Extent of Movement.
